TO THE AFFLICTED!

DR. RICHARDSON'S celebrated SHERRY WINE BITTERS, for the cure of all those prevalent diseases called Dyspepsia Jaundice, Bilious or Liver Complaints Dizziness or Headache Wandering or settled Pain, Sinking Faintness, Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Piles, and all general derangements of health, caused by an unhealthy state of the stomach and bowels, which have been justly styled "the storehouse of disease." These Bitters have proved a certain and speedy remedy. They preclude the necessity of using Pills. Dr R. considers it unnecessary to publish a long list of puffing recommendations upon which the whole merits of many advertised medicines depend.

CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.

They are put in Flat Bottles, with the following words blown in the glass, "S. D. Richardson Bitters South Reading, Mass." with a label which covers the cork, and be sure that a fac simile of my signature is upon the label so that the cork cannot be drawn without destroying it, also a fac simile of my signature upon the outer envelope without which none are GENUINE. The great success of this medicine has induced a number of unprincipled persons to imitate it in various ways. Remember this Bitters cannot be obtained of Pedlars on any pretence whatever.

P. S. BARNARD and W. G. SKINNER Travelling Agents for the New England States. Prepared from Medicinal Plants and Roots at Richardson's Laboratory. Sold Wholesale and Retail at his office No. 15, Hanover street Boston, and by most Druggists throughout the N. E. States. HARRISON'S PERISTALTIC LOZENGES;

AN APPROVED REMEDY FOR COSTIVENESS AND DYSPEPSIA.

THIS medicine is not put forth as a universal nostrum calculated to cure all the diseases incident to humanity but rather as a means of preventing them. It may safely be stated that nine tenths of the most serious maladies arise from an unhealthy action of the stomach and bowels or liver influencing as a natural consequence indigestion and its results such as headache acidity of the stomach, heartburn flatulency nausea lowness of spirits jaundice and a whole catalogue of other complaints which may be effectually removed by a timely and persevering use of this remedy.

The most cogent objection to Aperients in general is, that containing some drastic purgative they leave after their operation has ceased a torpidity of the stomach and bowels producing consequences which their administration was intended to correct. Such effects will not follow the use of these Lozenges.

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

The Peristaltic Lozenges are strongly recommended to the notice of every Lady having obtained the sanction and approbation of several eminent gentlemen of the Medical Profession as a safe and valuable medicine in removing obstructions and relieving all other inconveniences to which the female frame is liable especially those which arise at an early period of life from want of exercise and general debility of the system. They create an appetite correct indigestion remove giddiness and nervous headache, and are eminently useful in wind orders pains in the stomach shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. Being perfectly innocent they can be taken at any time and under any circumstances. The most delicate female when an aperient is required may have recourse to them and they will act as a preventive against those nervous and hysterical affections which so frequently arise from confined constipation.

TO SEAFARING PEOPLE AND TRAVELLERS GENERALLY

To individuals living more particularly seafaring persons when from change of habit or climate the liver and bowels become inactive and costiveness follows as an invariable result, these Lozenges will prove invaluable. One individual writes "I consider myself cured of costiveness to which I was always subject the moment I left the land solely by the use of your medicine." The proprietor is continually receiving orders from his seafaring friends for the Lozenges. When they are to be carried to sea they ought always to be started from the box in which they are packed and put into tight bottles. In this way they may be kept good for any length of time.

The proprietor offers them as a cure for nervous headache and general neuralgic affections. Very remarkable cures might be published if thought necessary.

Mr. Milhan, the agent in New York, writes "I think it no longer necessary to advertise to the extent as heretofore, the Lozenges are now well known. I am daily receiving the most satisfactory accounts of them, and I shall always recommend them to my customers."

The very questionable reputation which a medicine derives from the fashionable practice of publishing a long list of certificates from persons whom nobody knows has induced the proprietor to forego the opportunity of offering to the public the many commendations which he is daily receiving of these Lozenges trusting rather to their own merits which will be apparent to all on trial and the respectability of his numerous agents.

These Lozenges have been in use for two years the general approbation they have met with from our first families establishes their merits and makes further remarks unnecessary. They are packed in boxes which may be carried in the pocket and sold at fifty cents per box.

For sale in Bangor by George W. Holden and Whittier & Guild. Bastport John Bockford Hallowell Samuel Adams and F. Scammon Augusta, Tappan & Ladd Gardiner A. F. Perkins Portland, Joshua Durgin and Artemas Carter,

At the same places is the above, may be had

HARRISON'S PILE REMEDY,

Warranted as specific in all cases.

Hæmorrhoids or the Piles are occasioned by habitual costiveness plethora, hard riding on horseback and not unfrequently by the use of aloetic purgatives. The popular nostrum known as "Vegetable Pills," "Universal Pills" and the like are highly injurious when taken for a long time being composed chiefly of aloes which thought never to be taken by persons subject to Piles.

This complaint is not necessarily and of itself immediately dangerous, inasmuch as in some instances it may be considered as a salutary evacuation especially in plethoric or full blooded persons but when suffered to remain long it is the cause of many serious and even hazardous diseases.

The remedy now offered to the public, is prepared by the undersigned, from the recipe of a highly eminent practitioner in a neighboring City and from the numerous cases absolutely cured by the use of it, he feels warranted in offering it as a specific.

It is put up in packages at fifty cents with full directions for use accompanied by a plain treatise on the disease. Prepared and for sale by

FEATHERS.

E. T. FAIRBANKS, at Dill & Son's Hat and Shoe Store No. 32 Main street Bangor, Keeps constantly for sale LIVE GEESE, RUSSIA AND SICILY FEATHERS, at wholesale or retail, at Boston Prices. Warranted clean.

These Feathers are cleansed and renovated by a new and improved process, by steam, invented by Gen. S. G. Lane, of Hallowell. The dust and dirt which is so generally found in them, is entirely separated, and all offensive smell removed. The heat applied to dry and renovate them is generated by steam, and they are consequently free from any injury from this part of the process. They are put up in bags from 5 to 40 pounds each and warranted to be clean. Purchasers may have their beds filled with any quantity desired.

Those who wish their beds cleansed may have them done, at short notice and moderate price by leaving them as above; those who wish for two or more beds cleansed, by making application may have them taken from and returned to their houses free of extra charge.

The importance of renovating and purifying Feathers which have been used by sick and diseased persons, will be apparent to all. Those who will take the trouble to call and examine the machine, will be satisfied as to the utility and importance.

SALT RHEUM.

HUNDREDS of persons afflicted by this grievous malady, have made use of this medicine, and it has invariably given entire satisfaction. In some cases its good effects have been truly wonderful.

The Rev. Joel B. Hawes, of Edgecomb, Me. under date of April 15, 1838, certifies, "that his wife, after having been afflicted with Salt Rheum, at times, especially in the winter season, for more than twelve years, applied about one year ago to Mr. Trufant for the OINTMENT AND MEDICINE which he had advertised, as a cure for this dreadful disease. She obtained and used it for several weeks strictly to the prescription of Mr. Trufant, when to her great joy she found herself to appearance perfectly cured. She has had some small symptoms of the disorder once since, but on the application of the ointment, &c. he removed them." He further adds, "Though I will yield to no one in my hatred to quackery, I do most cordially recommend "Mr. Trufant's Patent Medicine for the Salt Rheum" to all who are afflicted with this dreadful malady."

Mr. Joel Howe, of West Prospect in a letter dated April 12, 1838, to the proprietor says "I have a daughter, who was very much afflicted with Salt Rheum for 5 years, I procured for her Mr. Wm. B. Trufant's medicine, by applying which she obtained relief and for six months past, has enjoyed comfortable health."

Mr. Samuel Adams, druggist, Hallowell, has been agent for the sale of "Trufant's Remedy for Salt Rheum", for a few months, and during that time, he observes, "he has seen persons afflicted with the Salt Rheum in every degree, from a slight touch on the hand to the covering of the whole body, completely cured by the above medicine."

From Mr. Huston Stinson of Georgetown, Me.

This is to certify that my wife has been sorely afflicted with the Salt Rheum, at times, from a child and often for month in succession, so that she was unable to be about house.

During this time she made use of almost every thing which had been recommended to her as good for the complaint, but found little relief and had formed the conclusion that there was no help for her. In 1837, she and her child (six months old) were so badly afflicted that they had but little rest, day or night, the child being almost covered with sores, and had been in this state for several months. A brother of mine, knowing the distress of my family, advised me by all means to make trial of Trufant's Compound for Salt Rheum. Agreeably to his advice, I purchased a quantity of it and applied it as directed, and I can say to my great satisfaction that in two or three days they found great relief and in four week's time, the disorder entirely disappeared. Since that, they have been free from all humors whatever and enjoy good health and I have reason to believe are perfectly cured. I have lost two children with the same complaint. Had the same medicine been applied to them I have good reason to believe that they would now have been living. I value the Compound highly as a remedy for this awful disease and with pleasure would recommend it to all who may be afflicted with it.

HUSTON STINSON

Georgetown, May 19, 1838.

No person need fear any evil from it however old or young, or feeble, for it is simple, and may be applied with safety. It is also a cure for other humors, such as Ring worm, Scald Head, Leprosy, Shingles, Itch, for what is sometimes called the Jackson Itch, and for all cutaneous diseases. Price one dollar.

MOTTO EXPLAINED

We noticed sometime since in the Republican Journal as a motto, what purported to be an extract from the writings of General Washington, as expressive of his views in making appointments. The extract, when applied to our times, and to the action of the present and the last general administration, appeared to us so contrary to the general sentiment and practice of George Washington, that we expressed doubts of its genuineness, and that the circumstances of the case might have an important and particular bearing; and we called upon the editor of that paper for his authority. To this call he remained silent, and in the mean time issued his paper without the accustomed motto. This we noticed, and the editor of the Age comes to his help, in his usual chaste and elegant style.

The extract then, is genuine. But let us look for a moment at the position of Washington at the time of his writing it. A fierce opposition from some of the leading men of the country had for several years been going on against the adoption of the constitution by the several States; and a fiercer opposition and outbreak against the administration of Washington, threatening to upset the whole foundation of the government, and to throw the country into chaos, on account of his ratification of the treaty of commerce with Great Britain. His Secretary of State had suddenly resigned but a few days before, and was at work with a zeal worthy a better cause, and which he afterwards regretted, in adding flames to the popular party movements against George Washington on account of this ratification. He was laboring with the greatest caution and prudence in selecting men for office who would aid him in the important and critical station he filled, to restore the country to peace and happiness, and give it the choice blessing of liberty. This will be more clearly seen in a short extract from one of his letters written about a week after the one alluded to, addressed to Patrick Henry.

"I persuade myself, Sir, it has not escaped your observation, that a crisis is approaching, that must, if it cannot be arrested, soon decide whether order and good government shall be preserved, or anarchy and confusion ensue."

Under these circumstances the following exhibit, which is hoisted as a motto in the locofoco papers, was written:

"I shall —, whilst I have the honor to administer the Government, bring a man into any office of consequence, knowingly, whose political tenets are adverse to the measures which the Government is pursuing; for this would be political suicide. That it would, I am aware, is not the reason, is true."

But what were Washington's ideas in reference to political tenents adverse to the measures of the general government? The answer to this will readily appear when we recollect, that at that time England and France had each, strong and active partizans among our citizens. And better still, by an extract from one of his letters explanatory of his views. He says, and be it remembered, this was only thirteen days after writing the above:

"I want an American character, that the powers of Europe may be convinced we act for ourselves, and not for others."

This, in my judgment, is the only way to be respected abroad and happy at home; and not, by becoming the partisans of Great Britain or France, create dissentions, disturb the public tranquility, and destroy, perhaps forever, the cement which binds the Union."

"This "American character" was one of his great ideas. Hear him again:

"It is a fact too notorious to be denied, that the greatest embarrassments, under which the administration of this government labors, proceed from the counteraction of people among ourselves, who are more disposed to promote the views of another nation, than to establish a national character of their own; and that, unless the virtuous and independent men of this country will come forward, it is difficult to predict the consequences."

But to show still further the baseness of the locofoco editors who put forth the extract as a motto of their party, and a justification for their strict adherence to party, let us take another extract from the writings of Washington, which certainly are the best commentaries upon his meaning; and we shall see whether he approved of any thing like modern party subserviency. He says:

"But, much indeed to be regretted, party disputes are now carried to such a length, and truth is so enveloped in art and false representation, that it is extremely difficult to know through which channel to seek it. This difficulty arises, some say, from no party, and whose sole wish is to pass with undeviating steps a path, which would lead this country to respectability, wealth and happiness, is exceedingly to be lamented."

Once more, and as if to drive the screw of inconsistency home through all the spiral revolutions of its thread, into the very soul of locofoco practice; and in the same letter too, in which the locofoco editors have made their extract, he says:

"I think suggest to Mr. D. for the office of Attorney General, although I have a very good opinion of his abilities, and know nothing in his moral character or connexions to the contrary, yet the reason I suggested to him was first mentioned to me has still weight with me; that is, after a long and severely contested election, he could not obtain a majority of suffrages in the District he formerly represented. In this instance, then, the sense of his constituents respecting him is already known."

But how stands the case with the present executive of the Union? Appointments to important offices of those whom the people have rejected is one of common transaction, examples of which are not wanting in our own State.

If the extract was made a motto for the purpose of showing their respect for, and attachment to, the principles of Washington, they should throw up the locofocos and join the people in support of Whig principles. But if it was called a motto to set up their corrupt practices, they deserve the contempt of every being who venerates the patriotism and integrity and principles of the immortal Washington.

Wing. At an election held in this town by the Artillery company on Thursday afternoon, John Quincy was chosen Captain, and Hanson Lane, 2d Lieutenant.

SPLENDID WORKMANSHIP

We have noticed for some time past, that our neighbor, A. G. Jewett, Esq. was building a splendid addition to his house on Summer street, and from certain hints we have had, were prepared to witness something a little superior to any thing in the way of a house in the city. And a day or two since, we took the opportunity to examine this dwelling in company with a friend. We were prepared to see something elegant and in good taste, but the splendor and exceeding beauty of workmanship, and perfection of design that met us on every hand, we were quite unprepared for. The nicely and yet finely proportioned white oak door at the entrance is a gem in its way, and a right good way it is too for those who wish to have things substantial; the inner doors and the finish are all of mahogany, and without a bead or moulding in any part, and yet quite perfect — more so indeed, than with them. The saloon is a magnificent room extending quite across the body of the house, and the large windows are designed to have sliding mirrors on the inside, the full size of the windows, which must give a transcendently brilliant appearance to an evening party. The rooms directly over the saloon are quite ample and connected by sliding doors. In the attic is a lonely finished hall, extending from one end of the house to the other, without any obstructions, and ventilated by a spacious window at each end and a lovely cupola and dome at the centre of the top.

While our neighbor has thus magnificently provided for his friends, he has not been unmindful of his own health, convenience and comfort, as in other parts of the house he has ample accommodations for all his domestic affairs. In the basement is a splendid bathing room, and accommodations for a warm or cold, shower, or plunge bath.

We do not intend in this notice to thrust our neighbor's affairs before the public, but we notice the near completion of his beautiful dwelling as an ornament to the city; and there being so few improvements in building going on as quite a credit to him and the city.

We learn that our fellow citizen, Charles H. Pond, was the architect and performed the carpenter and joiner work, all of which he has executed with great credit to himself, and we doubt not to the satisfaction of his employer. We wish there were many more of our citizens who possessed the ability, and the good taste, to erect similar edifices in our city.

North Carolina Elections.—In Bynum's district, Long's majority in Halifax and North Hampton is sixty four. Bertie and Martin, the two counties to be heard from, gave Bynum in 1837, two hundred and ninety two majority. Martin, it is thought, will give him one hundred now. More than enough to elect him.

From the Newburn district, where the election took place on the 1st, we have no returns. Shepherd was elected as a whig in 1837 by four hundred and eighty eight majority, but the district was always before that strong locofoco. Shepherd is now the locofoco candidate, and from some remarks in the Newbern Spectator, we infer that he was running Biddie, the whig candidate, hard. The Spectator seemed to think that Shepherd was elected.

"Maine has remonstrated with the General Government year after year, but in vain; it has been done in the spirit of a dutiful and submissive child, and hence she has been overlooked and neglected, and her prayers disregarded."
Democrat, Aug. 6.

How many times have the Whig presses said the same thing, and the reply has been, "Government has done every thing it could do." To be sure the Government did make a proposition to give us lands in Michigan and give our territory to the British, and the proposition was seriously considered in secret session by the locofocos, and would have been acceded to by them, had it not been for the firm remonstrances and strenuous opposition of the Whigs. No wonder that the prayers of men who were so recreant to the best interests of the State as to show a willingness to barter their lands for bogs, should be "disregarded."

SCISSORS.

Last Thursday a drunken women in Philadelphia thrust her bare arm though a pane of glass, and severed nearly all the veins and arteries in it. "I'll make you prove that," said one man to another, who accused him of theft. "You had better not," interposed a bystander, "for you'll feel worse afterwards than you do now." A young lady in Virginia lately died after drinking immoderately of the cordial called perfect love.— A gang of desperadoes infest Natchez. A gentleman was recently knocked down by one of them and robbed of $1500. The U. S. Ships Ohio and Cyane were in the outer roads of Marseilles on the 20th of June, to sail next day for Genoa. "Here's the bannisters, but where the d—l are the stairs," as the drunken fellow said when he felt his way around the bedstead in the dark. George M. Dallas, Esq. Minister to Russia, has obtained leave to return home, to resume his profession. It is said Mr. Cambreleng will succeed Mr. D. as Minister to the court of St. Petersburgh.

Too Good to be Lost. We find the following creamy narration gravely published in the southern correspondence of the Greenfield (Massachusetts) Courier, as a specimen of northern treatment of blacks:

A gentleman reclining upon his sofa one warm summer's day, called his waiter to bring him a handkerchief. The order was instantly obeyed. 'Hold it to my nose,' was a further demand. The servant did so. After holding it there a minute or two, the sprawling gentleman sprang up, and put a sudden stop to his career (whether round or square head I don't know—) which sent him headlong, at the same time remarking, 'You grand rascal, you know what I wanted why didn't you blow?'

The following notice of Mellon Chamberlain, Esq., account of whose death we published a short time since, is from the N. Y. Journal of Commerce:

"Mr. Chamberlain was a native of Peacham, Vermont. He was brother to the late Professor Chamberlain of Dartmouth College, and son of Gen. William Chamberlain formerly Representative in Congress from Vermont, and Lieut. Governor of that State. He was graduated at Dartmouth College in 1816, was successfully engaged as Principal of an Academy at Montpelier, Vermont, and at Bellefont, Penn.; pursued the study of law at Litchfield, Connecticut, and finally established himself in his profession at Castine, Maine. He was faithful and honorable as a lawyer, but did not find his professional employments congenial with his feelings and tastes. He afterwards became extensively engaged in business, and removed his residence to Philadelphia. In 1835 he married the widow of Rev. John Crosby of Castine, Maine, but this estimable lady was removed by death in Jan. 1837. Having amassed a competent fortune, and having already travelled extensively in his own country, the Canadas, and the West Indies, he decided to gratify his desire for improvement by making the tour of Europe and Asia. In June 1833 he embarked for Havre, and after spending some time in Paris visited Italy, Greece, Egypt and Palestine. He was honored with personal interviews with many of the nobles in Europe and Asia, and enjoyed the society of our missionaries in Athens, Beyroot, and Constantinople. In May 1839, he embarked at Constantinople for St. Petersburg, via Vienna. Undertaking to pass the rapids on the Danube between Orsova and Crinkova, the packet-boat was suddenly overset; and Mr. Chamberlain drowned. He had retired to the cabin just before the accident in excellent health and spirits; and if he had remained on deck he probably would have been saved. Five of his fifteen fellow-passengers escaped to the shore. His remains were kindly collected and buried in the Roman Catholic Cemetery at Sevenetzi, where a tablet will soon be raised to his memory. He was the first Protestant to whose remains that cemetery was ever opened. He has left an only child and a very extensive circle of friends to mourn his melancholy loss. He was a gentleman of highly cultivated mind and manners; of rich and varied acquisition, and of amiable and exemplary character."

Crew Murdered. News from Havana at New Orleans states that on the 6th inst. the steward of a Spanish schooner, on a coasting voyage from that port to Trinidad de Cuba, with a cargo of negroes, and twenty six white passengers, men, women and children, managed to excite the blacks against the whites; the latter were all murdered, together with the officers and crew of the schooner. As soon as this news reached Havana the government despatched a vessel of war in search of the coasters.

FLORIDA.

Tallahassee, July 26. Two wagons with an escort of eight men, left Fort Frank Brooke, Deadman's bay, on Monday morning last, and after proceeding near half the distance to Fort Andrews Henderson, the Hospital Steward, with five men, were fired on by a party of Indians from a hammock near the road. Henderson and Parks fell dead. The horse of another of the escort being shot, fell and entangled the leg of his rider in such a manner as to prevent his rising. On the approach of the Indians the horse rose; the rider at the same time remounting, was borne off to the party, and the three joined the wagons. One man being sent back to Fort Frank Brooke, returned with an increased force. They found the body of Parks horribly mutilated, his eyes dug out, his throat cut, and other disgusting outrages committed on his body. The body of Henderson had been removed, and could not be found. The enemy was trailed some distance without finding them. Scouts are still in pursuit.

[From the London Saturday Journal.]

THE RESPECTABLE ROGUE

There is a very general prejudice against rogues of all sorts, especially against rogues in rags. The world detests and despises the unsuccessful knave. The prosperous rogue it treats with more lenity, nay, with a degree of tenderness, if not absolutely with respect. It may, indeed, look askance at him occasionally, with an equivocal sort of glance; but it is afraid to speak out and never tells him its mind of him freely. It feels delicate, and cannot think of accusing a person who dresses so well, who looks so much of the gentleman, and whose domestic establishment is so respectable, of being a — what shall we say? Why, we feel a little delicate in speaking out too — say, of being a little queer or so in his dealings. This is the most gentle phrase that occurs to us at the moment. No, the world cannot think of being so rude; the world is a polite world to all who face it boldly, and who keep a good coat on their backs. Yet is there, certainly, somehow or other, a very general prejudice against the particular class of the community of which we have been speaking. There is no denying that. It is a prejudice, however, in which we are proud to say we do not partake. It would be most ungrateful of us if we did; for two of the finest fellows we ever knew — the kindest-hearted, the most hospitable, and in whose kindness and hospitality we have often shared — were a couple of the greatest, the most decided rogues in Christendom — rogues of the first water. But they were respectable rogues, men of substance, men of pleasant manners and benevolent dispositions; kept elegant houses and superlative tables. You had, in fact, nothing to do but to avoid dealing with them — for they were both a sort of general merchants or traders — to find them all you could wish, agreeable companions and most intelligent men. But as to trusting them, hem!

Rogues, as has been already indirectly insinuated, and as every body knows, are of many description. They are, in the language of advertisements, "too numerous to mention;" nor is it our intention to mention them, far less to describe them. In our present essay we intend to confine ourselves entirely to one particular class, the respectable rogues. Who the respectable rogue is we shall now endeavor to give the reader as accurate an idea as we can; for, altho' he may often have met with him, and very likely to his cost, he may not, without some description, at once recognize him under the designation which we have bestowed on him.

Before, however, entering on this description, let us, to prevent mistakes, state generally, and at once, that our rogue is not an open, profess'd robber — not a pilferer, pickpocket, housebreaker, highwayman, nor thief. By no means. He is a decent member of society — a good, worthy, church-going man, and generally in the mercantile line, although not strictly confining himself to any particular pursuit.

The respectable rogue is usually a middle-aged man, of grave, staid demeanor; calm, placid countenance; mild and pleasant of speech, and with very much the look of a philosopher. His dress is generally composed of a sober suit of dark colored cloth, a narrow, very clean, white neckcloth is neatly and modestly wound round his somewhat scraggy throat, his shoes are always well blacked; and the respectability of his appearance is completed by a rather broad, brimmed hat, which, as every one must have observed, gives a sort of substantial air to the wearer, especially if he be pretty well up in years.

Will the reader permit us to pause here for a moment to indulge in a short digression? It is for the sake of bringing his attention to a strange fact or two connected with our subject, which we could not well work into the body of our matter. Having then, described our rogue as a quiet, calm, grave personage, we would beg to remark, that such a description of practitioners have greatly the advantage of and are more generally successful than your smart, bullying, bluestering and spoken, flashily dressed rogue, the devilish active and clever fellow, as he thinks himself, and as he is sometimes called by others. But it's a mistake — a gross mistake. This sort of rogue has, generally, little or no management or method about him, but thinking to carry things with a high hand, goes direct to his point, and in nine cases out of ten, misses his mark — his noise and bustle only creating alarm and suspicion, and finally scaring away the prey.

We have known several of this class. Bright, broad, yellow waistcoated, and gold chained rogues, who carried high heads, and talked much and loudly; but they somehow or other, never did much good — certainly never half so much as the quiet, steady, low speaking, and little speaking practitioner whom we have introduced to the reader. The former in fact, has no chance whatever with the latter, clever as he may think himself; and this we take upon us to assert roundly, without the smallest fear of contradiction.

But to resume — the respectable rogue, as already hinted, is a great church goer. His calm honest looking, candid countenance is to be seen as regularly, in its wonted place there of a Sunday, as the clergyman's. Nay; on these occasions his appearance is — [illegible] — for he is seated in the midst of his family, all well dressed and most becomingly demure. The father himself is the very personification of piety. His devout attention to the sermon is truly edifying to behold, and — a word in your ear good reader — it is worth two hundred a year to him, if it be worth a farthing; for there are many sitters in the church, warm men, with whom he may deal, and has dealt in various articles, and very much (as he manages matters) to the benefit of his worldly interests.

We have said that the respectable rogue is generally in the mercantile line, but we have also said that he does not strictly confine himself to such pursuits; neither does he. He has in fact no objection to enter into any sort of spec, but promises to pay, and it will be a very queer one that he will not make pay in some shape or other. He will buy — no, that's not exactly the word, as buying implies paying, and our friend never pays; deal, then is the more correct expression; he will deal in any thing — bricks, coffins, trencle, hard ware, any commodity in short, which can by any process be converted into money. He will enter into any project, where it is not an imperative condition that there should be a tabling of cash previous to admission — and even where it is, he often contrives to get in without advancing a copper. He squeezes himself, or rather glides in, through chinks or openings, which having been unseen, are left unguarded — and once in, all's right. Try who'll get him out again until he finds it convenient to retire. And when he does so, see if he goes empty handed.

We come now to the most delicate and most interesting point for consideration in the conduct of the respectable rogue. How does he manage in his transactions? What is his particular mode and manner of doing the natives? What are the sort of proceedings that have obtained for him the flattering reputation he enjoys? These are curious and interesting questions, but they are not easily answered; or rather, it is impossible to answer them — at least, in plain definite terms.

For the respectable rogue manages things so adroitly, and with such cautious dexterity, that nobody can ever charge him with any distinct palpable piece of rascality. They can only say of him, generally, that he is a dangerous customer, and that they had need to have all their eyes about them who deal with him. Further than this they cannot say, for the lives of them. Even those who have come in contact with him, and lost by him — the latter being invariably the inevitable sequence of the former — cannot tell how they have been done; they only know they have been losers, but how it has come about, they never can exactly tell. It is a mystery to them; for, during the whole transaction with our friend, he was so grave, so sedate, so reasonable, so open and candid, explained matters so fully and plausible, met impatient and angry demands with such a quiet pleasant smile, that although there was evident loss to accrue, and some things that looked a little odd or so, yet there was nothing (whatever they thought) which they could venture to call, or think of calling, positive knavery.

One point of management, however, on the part of the respectable rogue, we may advert to. It is one which is of the utmost service to him in baffling all attempts at saddling him with any particular or special grounds of accusation. This is, the rendering all transactions as complicated as possible; giving them as many twists and turns as they are capable of, in order to bewilder and mystify. If he can only manage that, the rest is comparitively easy; he can then accomplish a little comfortable jugling with tolerable safety, and finish by fobbing something neat. It is true that he will sometimes come across a sharp customer, who will not be thrown out by his turnings and windings but will track him, nose him through them all, with an unflagging diligence, and finally insist on a fair and square settlement of accounts. In such case, our friend has nothing for it but to come down with the rhino, or to throw himself on the shuffling system, as practiced on the excessively civil principle, and try what they will do for him, and ten to one but it does a good deal for him in the end; partly by exhausting the activity of the creditor, blunting the edge of his urgency, and partly by disarming him of his more savage purposes.

The respectable rogue has, as a matter of course, tried two or three bankruptcies in the course of his life, and made out pretty well with them. On these trying occasions his conduct is most becomingly decorous, and he looked the unfortunate man so well, appeared so meek, so resigned, so patient under his sufferings, so very like a philosopher in his distress — so quiet, and so candid in his explanations, so sensible in his remarks, that his creditors could not find it in their hearts to be severe with him, nor to press him very hard on certain points of a delicate nature, involving the disposal of certain sums of money. They could not, they rather felt for, and pitied the man, for he wiped his eyes two or three times when under examination, and spoke of his small family: not much however, nor ostentatiously, but in that quiet allusive way best calculated to touch the heart.

One other characteristic only of the respectable rogue now remains to be touched upon. His words are sweet and balsamic, and flow over his smooth tongue like candy syrup. There is no standing his gentle, insinuating 'My dear sir,' especially when accompanied by the still gentler smile with which unsuspected flats are cozened. Many, many a score of pounds have these honeyed words and this bland smile put into his pocket — many a day of count and reckoning have they averted, and many a storm, raised by disappointed and impatient creditors, have they allayed by bringing on them.

Reader, have you any 'respectable rogues' among your acquaintance? If you have, don't you think our sketch of him a tolerable likeness?

Splitting Hair.—Some years ago Roger Sherman and Perry Smith, the United States Senators from Connecticut, were opposed to each other as advocates in an important case before a court of justice. Smith opened the case with a violent and foolish tirade against Sherman's political character. Sherman rose very coolly and remarked 'I shall not discuss politics with Mr. Smith before this court, but I am perfectly willing to argue questions of law, to discuss logic, or even to split hairs with him.' 'Split that then,' said Smith, at the same time pulling a rough looking hair from his own head, and handing it over towards Sherman. 'May please the honorable court,' retorted Sherman, quick as lightning, 'I didn't say bristles.'

Dock Dialogues. 'Captain, are you off to-day?' 'Yes sir.' 'What is the price in the cabin to Cleveland?' 'Five dollars.' 'I'll go with you, and my baggage too. Get on board with you.' 'Are you the man wot owns the boat?' inquired an emigrant from the Emerald Isle. 'No, but I have charge.' 'Well darling, what's the charge till Toledo?' 'Toledo?' 'Aye, on the Maumee river; mind honey I'll board myself.' 'Two fifty.' 'Pounds or pence, which?' 'Pounds currency to be sure.' 'To be sure, the price is high. It would be serving a poor body that's burthened with a wife and four children, to be — Couldn't I board and do work the best I can? I have hands sufficient.' 'Och honey, I see you have, but then they're too clain and soft like to pull the ropes. Do consent, and take two dollars, not a sowl will be a word the wiser of it.' 'Well well, get a board, and stow away forward there out of the way of the wheel, do you hear?' 'Ah, never fear, I'll not be seen again till I touch landing. Come aboard Biddy.'

TAKE NOTICE ALL.

WESTON'S celebrated PATE DE CHOCOLAT, ou Pate de Coco.

This excellent preparation of the Cocoa Nut is particularly recommended, not only on account of the great facility with which it is made ready, and for its peculiar richness of flavor, but more especially on account of the light and salutary nutriment it affords, the Oil of the Nut (which in the ordinary mode Cocoa or Chocolate separates, thereby offends the stomach, and counteracts its otherwise beneficial effects) is in this preparation completely neutralized and rendered harmless, at the same time possessing its superior qualities

MR. HOLLAND,

HAVING had long experience in Tuning and repairing Piano Fortes and Organs, and being confident, from his uniform success, that he is able to give entire satisfaction to those who employ him, respectfully offers his services to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity. He has the most ample testimonials from various sources, which he will exhibit to any one who may wish to examine them. Amongst the rest, he has certificates from Committees in Salem, Quincy, and other places in Massachusetts and in this State of his success in Tuning Organs. From all the principal Piano Forte Manufacturers in Boston he has recommendations couched in the most flattering terms, of which a specimen is given below.

Mr. HOLLAND may be found at the Franklin House, and all calls and orders in the line of his profession will receive prompt attention

This is to certify, that Mr. JAMES HOLLAND has this day tuned a New Piano Forte, at our Manufactory, to our entire satisfaction, and we take great pleasure in recommending him to all persons who may wish his services as a Tuner, and also as a person competent to repair and regulate Piano Fortes when they are out of order.

VALUABLE CERTIFICATES. EVAN'S CAMOMILE AND APERIENT PILLS THE DIFFERENCE.

IT cannot be denied that whilst many medicines which are recommended to the public have not even the negative merit of harmlessness there are others which it would be great injustice indeed and suicidal prejudice to involve untried, in a common condemnation. And when a medicine comes endorsed with all the great names that have adorned the annals of the medical profession and warranted by the seal and signature of long and uniform success, its proprietor makes no unreasonable demand upon the public confidence, when he claims for it a superior consideration.

The Camomile Preparation by Dr Wm Evans is undeniably entitled to this enviable distinction for whilst no medical authority in existence condemns it, every medical practitioner that is acquainted with it, freely acknowledges its pre-eminent virtues and that the latter should do so in opposition to their personal interests, must be attributed either to their candor and love of truth or to their unwillingness to fly in the face of all observation, and the testimony of thousands.

Dr W Evans does not pretend that his Camomile Tonic Pills will cure all diseases He frankly and conscientiously admits that they will not He lays no claim to the discovery of the "Philosopher's Stone," and wishes nobody to believe that he sells the "Elixir of Life," but he does say and he does believe, and he can prove, that in debility and impaired constitution; in Nervous diseases of all kinds; in weakness of the digestive organs, in incipient consumptions, whether of the lungs or the liver, in the dreadful debility occasioned by the use of purgatives; in palsy; hypochondria, (most especially) in the sickness incident to mothers and to females of relaxed nerves, in every case of delirium tremens, or that disease which is brought on by intemperance; in the wretched horrors of body and mind which accrue from occasional inebriety, loss of appetite, languor, melancholy, pains in the head, side or side, to corrupt sallow and unromely complexion caused by the bad state of the fluids in all these cases, and in others mentioned in the bills of directions given with his medicines HE DOES SAY, that the Camomile Tonic Pills, interchanged occasionally with his Aperient Family Pills (the best known) which are sold with them will effect immediate relief, and if used but for a fair period effect a perfect cure This much is placed beyond a doubt by daily testimonies which would be given on oath, and for this much Dr W Evans earnestly respectfully requests confidence He therefore need only add that his Camomile Tonic Pills, together with his excellent Family Aperient Pills, can be obtained wholesale or retail at No 7 Division street near Chatham square, N. York, and his authorized agents in town and country.

Other and more conclusive demonstrations of the efficacy of Dr. Evans' Camomile Preparations and Aperient Medicines, are submitted by the following important and extraordinary cures effected by their highly medicinal qualities, all of which may be seen at Dr. Wm. Evans' Medical Office, No. 7, Division street. One or two of these he herewith respectfully gives to a discriminating public.

Dr Wm Evans Sir, be pleased to receive the thanks of one who has been a great sufferer for several years, for the great benefits she has received from the virtues of your invaluable Camomile Pills She has been racked with pain and distress in the head, a lightness across the head, a lightness across the stomach, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart; exercise would almost overcome her; but since using your Camomile Tonic Pills her complaints are removed she is able to exercise without fatigue, and is happy to say she can enjoy life comfortably again.

Newark July 18 1836 Dear Sir, for four years I have been so unwell that I was unable to attend to my business, and for the last 4 or 5 months was confined in my room. My complaints were dizziness, pains in my stomach indigestion and loss of sleep, accompanied with a distressed pain and [illegible] Tired of medicine [illegible] until I [illegible] taking your invaluable Camomile and Aperient Pills, their beneficial effects upon me astonish all who knew my situation In a few days I shall be at your office to express my gratitude to you in person In the mean time I subscribe myself your most ob't servt

Extract of a letter from Jonas Snyder, Postmaster Knoxville Pa to Dr Wm Evans Among several cases an elderly lady who had been 20 yrs afflicted with nervous hypochondria debility &c that for the last 5 years she constantly received medical aid from a respectable physician but the pressure and pain on her left and breast, and especially to her left side remained immovable attended at long intervals with weakness in her head and entirely keeping her discouraged to a degree bordering on despair. In May she commenced using Dr W Evans' Camomile and Family Aperient Pills according to the direction accompanying them A reaction took place, the pains and pressure in her bowels was removed, her mind became clear and strong, her appetite perfectly good and up to this time is in all respects restored to health, which for the last 12 years she has not enjoyed

Sept 2 1836 JONAS SNYDER.

ON LOW SPIRITS Low spirits is a certain state of the mind accompanied by indigestion wherein the greatest evils are apprehended upon the slightest grounds, and the worst consequences imagined. Ancient writers supposed this disease to be confined to those particular regions of the abdomen technically called hypochondria, which are situated on the right or left side of that cavity, whence comes the name hypochondriacs.

SYMPTOMS The common corporeal symptoms are flatulency in the stomach or bowels, acrid eructations costiveness, spasmodic pains giddiness, dimness of sight palpitations, and often an utter inability of fixing the attention upon any subject of importance or engaging in any thing that demands vigor or courage Also languorous; the mind becomes irritable thoughtful desponding melancholy and dejected accompanied with a total derangement of the nervous system The mental feelings and peculiar transports are such as that in the imagination and overwhelm the judgment exhibiting infinite diversity The wisest and best of men are as open to this affliction as the weakest

CAUSES A sedentary life of any kind especially severe study protracted to a late hour in the night, and rarely relieved by social intercourse or exercise a dissolute habit great excess in eating and drinking the immoderate use of mercury violent purgatives the suppression of some habitual discharge, or long continued eruption; relaxation or debility of one or more important organs within abdomen is frequent cause

TREATMENT The principal objects of treatment are to remove indigestion to strengthen the body and to elevate the spirits which may be promoted by exercise early hours regular meals and pleasant conversation The bowels (if costive) being carefully regulated by the occasional use of a mild aperient We know nothing better calculated to obtain this end than Dr Wm Evans' Aperient Pills—being mild and certain in their operation The bowels being once cleansed, his inestimable Camomile Pills (which are tonic anodyne & anti spasmodic) are an infallible remedy & without dispute have proved a great blessing to the numerous public—

Some physicians have recommended a free use of mercury but it should not be resorted to, as in many cases it will greatly aggravate symptoms of the North American College of Health, established at Washington, D. C, January 8, 1839

INDIAN VEGETABLE UNIVERSAL PILLS, or INDIAN PURGATIVE

FOR THE CURE OF ALL DISEASE.

The beautiful and simple theory of one disease and one remedy, as proposed by our native Indians and advocated by the North American College of Health is beginning now to be generally understood Thousands who have heretofore nobly felt the necessity of a peculiar medicine for each particular disease, now as strenuously contend that as all our maladies proceed from one cause, one medicine, capable of removing that cause will cure every disease incident to man

If disease attack the head, or the feet or the liver, &c each require a peculiar kind of medicine to heal them would not those parts each require a particular kind of food for the nourishment But as we know that good, wholesome food nourishes all parts of the system alike it is evident therefore that a good and proper vegetable medicine will, by purifying the blood, scatter health and remove disease from every part of the body

According to the Native or Indian theory our complaints owe their origin to one cause, the shutting up of those outlets (the skin bowels and bowels) through which nature has ordained that all corrupt and useless matters shall be expelled from the body. When these become closed, like shutting up of a water course either the accumulated water find a new outlet or the country becomes inundated, just so with the human body the natural drains become closed, the humors stagnate in the system, and either find expulsion in the form of various diseases, such as fevers, rheumatism, cutaneous eruptions gout &c, or approach and death ends the scene The only sensible method therefore of preventing and curing disease is to keep the body continually purged of all impurities and corrupt humors; and for this purpose no medicine will be found so effectual, as the Indian Purgative. Its use is the only one which extends to the opening of all the natural drains of the body Whilst under the influence of this medicine the body will be kept in a gentle but effectual perspiration, and no other discharge will be experienced, the stomach and bowels will be thoroughly cleansed, and the blood will be purified to purify itself.

One very common objection urged by some but particularly understand the principle of disease by purgation as promulgated by the North American College of Health is that although repeated purging will cure disease; yet that repeated exercising of these organs will injure and destroy their tone Those who raise objections to purging are as much to forget that purging is as natural to the bowels as walking is to the feet or labor to the hands and like every other function must be duly exercised in order to retain their energies.

How persons can comprehend the action of vegetable purgatives, by what mysterious process the blood is by them stimulated to deposite its impurities into the bowels; or how those organs are induced to evacuate the corrupt humors from the blood all can understand when they experience relief The gentlemen who compose the North American College of Health would therefore earnestly invite all who are suffering from disease of any kind to make a trial of the Indian Vegetable Pills

They begin to assure the American Public that the Indian Pill are a purgative so justly balanced that they may be taken at all times and under all circumstances with perfect safety and no dose however small, but will afford some relief and any quantity however large, (that is such as is required to open the bowels) can possibly injure

Assisting Nature should be our chief study, and for this purpose, the Indian Purgative will be found the most effectual medicine ever offered to the public. Its powerful agency always directed to the opening of those drains, through which nature carries out all impurities from the blood, proceeds to the amount of its strength she requires to enable her to cure every variety of disease It is a vegetable preparation, and acting in harmony with the constitution, it is law [illegible] and be restored. A single dose will in most cases effect a cure if persevered with, will always effect a cure

In using the Indian Purgative, (or Indian Vegetable Pills,) no care is necessary, except in taking such as will operate freely upon the bowels If this effect is obtained every other function will be duly performed The liver and kidneys will each be stimulated to discharge their portion of impurities; and the energy imparted by the medicine will enable the blood, will enable them to discharge and deposite its impure particles in the bowels, from whence they will be carried off by the peculiar action of those organs.

One great advantage possessed by the Indian Pills over every other medicine is, that in the worst of diseases natural principles and [illegible] plants, they are the right medicine to be administered, and, consequently, can never be taken improperly, therefore, no one should be lost in his choice of a medicine, the inquiry should be, is this, or is that the right medicine, the answer is, the Indian Pills are administered, the sick will be restored to health and usefulness

Price 25 cents per box with full directions.

A NATURAL REMEDY APPLICABLE TO CONSTITUTION

as a competent to cure every chronic disease, may be found in the

INDIAN PURGATIVE PILLS

Or UNIVERSAL MEDICINE of the North American College of Health.

This assertion may startle the reader and appear absurd and ridiculous, yet nevertheless it is true Will disease? When properly considered it is only an effort of nature to expel from the body some offending cause We are so constituted that there is a constant tendency in nature to expel or throw off whatsoever is injurious to health This is done by urine, stool, sweat, expectoration, vomit, &c These are the sewers of the body which all the useless and decayed matter is carried off and so long as they are kept open, so long will the body continue in health But when from eating improper food or other cause, the bowels become costive, or sudden alterations from heat to cold, the pores of the skin become closed, or any of the other drains become obstructed consequences are sure to follow The foul matter which should escape by these outlets instead of passing out as nature intended, is retained in the body, and either stagnates in the stomach, or is taken up by the absorbent vessels and added to the circulation This impure matter floating about the system, in the blood is disease in a latent form. It sometimes appears harmless for a time but nature always on the alert soon discovers the intruder and immediately commences a struggle for their expulsion It will be observed that in order to accomplish this object taking she always directs her efforts to remove the foul matters (disease) It is not wonderful that under such circumstances the body should sink, under the conflict resisting nature, should be our chief study and for this purpose no medicine will be found so effectual as the Indian Purgative Pills, as their effects extend to every one of the natural drains Whilst under its influence the body will be kept in a gentle but effectual perspiration This will throw off the grosser particles of its impurities from the bowels from which it will be expelled by the purgative quality of the Pills. And under every circumstance properly persevered with, it is impossible but the disease must yield to their powerful influence.

Thus briefly have we endeavored to address ourselves to the understanding of the reader to show to him in a condensed and comprehensive manner as possible the grounds and reasons why we claim Extraordinary Powers for

INDIAN PURGATIVE PILLS.

One other fact we would particularly stamp upon the memory of the reader. It is universally known and acknowledged that the Indians are the most skillful in the cure of diseases, of any people in the world; and common sense teaches us that herbs which spring spontaneously from our native soil, if properly combined and applied are the best adapted to our Constitutions. Therefore we (coupled with the above) we assure the reader that INDIAN PURGATIVE PILLS are simply a combination of the simple herbs now in universal use by the North American Indians, and we trust he is convinced of the superior qualities and therefore competent to the cure of every curable disease
